What more could a chap or chapette want? A nice fine Sunday, a great bike under your bum, a mob of good mates, and a slim reason for a 400k ride. That's what happened a couple of Sundays ago. Les on the Royal Star, Steve & Sue on the Road King, Sharpie on the V-strom, Tor and Yamy 1400 and me and me Tiger gathered for a gallop to Ravensthorpe to meet some dude from the Rotary club riding a venerable RT Beema and to escort him back to Esperance. As per normal things didn't go completely to plan, John wheeled out his K1200 and noticing canvas sprouting out of the rear tyre, pushed it back into the shed and retired indoors, anyway we did the normal, pausing at Mungi for a coffee and a piss before getting to Ravie and meeting the aforementioned Rotary bloke (his name escape's me) and a couple from Un Zud riding around Australia on a brace of hire Beema's. Pleasantries exchanged, we headed back eastward, the Rotary chap followed by Tor shot straight through Munglingup while we all pulled up for more coffee and urine evacuation. (handy spot Mungi) so much for the escort we didn't see him again. We paused for the last of the thermos's at the gazebo at Young River, there was a lass asleep in her car, after awhile she woke to find her car surrounded by bikes she yanked her seat up and tore off (wonder what she thought when she woke?) Nearly had a close one near Dalyup, going through the pine trees, what looked like a black plastic something on the side of the road tuned into a flock of black cockies that decided to get air borne in my bit of road space, staring straight up a cockies fundamental orifice I ducked behind the minute piece of Perspex that the Tiger calls a fairing and braced for the impact at 120klicks, dunno where he went he must have had an after burner.

The scribe heard a story while he was out. One of our members on a previous Sunday outing was visiting friends at Dalyup and finding the road a bit stony was unfortunately able to fall off his prized green Road King, thinking very quickly as the American behemoth toppled over, he flung himself under the beast so it would not get scratched. No worries except he could not get the Hog off him and the only helpers were Sue and the friend who is even smaller, to make long story a bit shorter the machine was lifted nary a scratch with no damage to both parties, lucky there wasn't any Ulysses bloke's to help cause they wouldn't have been of any use, its hard to lift a Harley when you are splitting your sides laughing.

My spy tells me that Davie Read and his apprentice Rowley Brown have lobbed up in Kununurra it's good to see the lads still traveling and having fun, thy seem to have lost the Gurk somewhere.

It was a bit dismal last weekend for the run to John & Jackie Crokers, we got damp and went home to get the car, the Lawrence's also arrived by motorcar and Sue went home also but didn't re-emerge, methinks the fine pig could get a hammering next meeting, the more hardier souls arrived on their motorcycles for a decko at the magnificent paintings and guns. When the Croker's get their museum going this will be a display not to be missed, thanks to John & Jackie for showing us their treasures.

Note in the paper this week, our fine upstanding citizens Dee, Evert and Sue lecturing the moped riders on the dangers of riding half naked, well done guys we will keep a keen eye out to see if the talk results in a cover up, or not!

The Reverend John Flapps was the pastor of a small town church in Ireland . One day he was walking down the High Street and he noticed a young lady of his congregation sitting in a pub drinking beer.

The Reverend wasn't happy. He walked through the open door of the pub and sat down next to the woman. 'Mrs. Fitzgerald,' he said sternly. 'This is no place for a member of my congregation. Why don't you let me take you home?' 'Sure,' she said with a slur, obviously very drunk. When Mrs. Fitzgerald stood up from the bar, she began to weave Back and forth. The Reverend realized that she'd had far too much to drink and grabbed her arms to steady her. When he did, they both lost their Balance and tumbled to the floor. After rolling around for a few moments, the Reverend wound up on top Of Mrs. Fitzgerald, her skirt hiked up to her waist. The pub landlord looked over and said, 'Oi Mate, we won't have any of that carrying on in this pub.'

The Reverend looked up at the landlord and said, 'But you don't understand, I'm Pastor Flapps.'

"The landlord nodded and said, 'Oh well, if you're that far in, you might as well finish.'

The Scribes Tip Of The Week:

At lunchtime, sit in your parked car with sunglasses on and point a hair dryer at passing cars. See if they slow down.

A 2007 study found that the average Australian walks about 900 miles a year.

Another study found that the average Australian drinks 22 gallons of beer a year.

That means the average Australian gets about 41 miles per gallon. Bloody good value that!

A woman is standing nude, looking in the bedroom mirror. She is not happy with what she sees and says to her husband, 'I feel horrible; I look old, fat and ugly. I really need you to pay me a compliment.'
The husband replies, 'Your eyesight's damn near perfect.'
And then the fight started...

OK here's a clean one

Three Little Pigs went out to dinner one night. The waiter came and took their drink order.
'I would like a Sprite,' said the first little piggy.
'I would like a Coke,' said the second little piggy.
'I want beer, lots and lots of beer,' said the third little piggy.

The drinks were brought out and the waiter took their orders for dinner.
'I want a nice big steak,' said the first piggy.
'I would like the salad plate,' said the second piggy.
'I want beer, lots and lots of beer,' said the third little piggy.

The meals were brought out and a while later the waiter approached the table and asked if the piggies would like any dessert.
'I want a banana split,' said the first piggy.
'I want a cheesecake,' said the second piggy.
'I want beer, lots and lots of beer,' exclaimed the third little piggy.

'Pardon me for asking,' said the waiter to the third little piggy, 'Why have you only ordered beer all evening?'
You're gonna LOVE me for this....
The third piggy says - 'Well, somebody has to go 'Wee, wee, wee, all the way home!
